Louise Bradford was the lone intervenor at the NRC, Atomic Safety Licensing Board Hearings July 16, 17 & 18 that reviewed the technical aspects of the TMI Unit 1 steam tube repairs.

TMIA has given financial support to Louise as it has taken many months of full-time preparation.

Unit 1 tube leaks fixed, licensing board assured

But Louise Bradford, representing Three Mile Island Alert Inc., which forced the public hearings, continued her second day of questioning safety aspects of the repair program.

The NRC Atomic Safety & Licensing Board has established a scheduled to reopen Management Hearings on three issues.

TMIA intervenors Joanne Doroshow and Louise Bradford with assistance from a Washington based group have started discovery requests and must complete responses and depositions by Sept. 30th. Hearings are scheduled for around November 1, 1984.

TMIA will again be the lone Central Pennsylvania group. Financial contributions and volunteers are needed.

Scope of competence issues in operation of TMI-1 argued

B4—The Evening News, Harrisburg, Pa., Friday, June 29, 1984

The three citizen groups that have been involved in the case — TMI Alert Inc., the Union of Concerned Scientists and Norman and Marjorie Aamodt of Coatesville — generally asked for a broader examination of the three issues in the new hearing.
